My body belongs to me - The Way of the Peaceful Parent

We should not presume its ownership simply by virtue of its possession. The body is separable from us, and the fact that it is severable means that we do not control it. But why should it matter who owns our body? It matters because the false assumption that 'it's my body' tempts and mistakenly entitles us to use it however we want. But that simply is not true - we can't use our body to steal or to lie or to rape, and get away with it for long.
